

Meadowbrook Farm

Meadowbrook Farm is 460 acres of historic public open space on the Snoqualmie Valley floor, located within the cities of Snoqualmie and North Bend. The mythical birthplace of the Snoqualmie tribe, this land was maintained for thousands of years by the Snoqualmies as a hunting and food-growing prairie. Early white settlers homesteaded the land for farms, and these were consolidated during the late 1800s to form the world's largest hop ranch. Subsequent farmers raised crops, dairy herds, green chop and hay.

The land was acquired as jointly owned public open space by the cities of Snoqualmie and North Bend in 1996 for wildlife habitat, historic and cultural interpretation, ongoing agriculture, and public recreation; today much of Meadowbrook Farm remains open field and wetland forest, as it has been for centuries. The land is managed by the Meadowbrook Farm Preservation Association, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization established by the cities to implement the master site plan for the property. Come walk across the meadow and through the woods, come for a class or just admire the view of this beautiful place. Remember, Meadowbrook Farm area is ancestral land and sacred to the Snoqualmie People: please visit respectfully and care for the land, the wildlife and the native plants that live here.

Meadowbrook Farm is located at 1711 Boalch Avenue in North Bend.

Snoqualmie 101

August 4, Friday, 7PM

Free, Meadowbrook Farm Interpretive Center

Join Snoqualmie Valley Historical Museum's Cristy Lake to find out about the history of Snoqualmie the town, including its unique geologic origins, thousands of years of tribal life, and early pioneers. Enjoy rare photos from the Museum's collection, and find out more about the real people behind local street names. Gain a new appreciation for our special place! Families welcome.

North Bend 101

September 8, Friday, 7PM

Free, Meadowbrook Farm Interpretive Center

Enjoy an evening with Snoqualmie Valley Historical Museum's Cristy Lake, and learn about the fascinating history of the town of North Bend. Beginning with the last ice age, discover why this valley has been important to people for thousands of years. Special photos from the museum's collection will give vivid glimpses into North Bend's colorful past and personalities. Families welcome!

Visit the Scout Meadow

Take a self-guided walk to one of Meadowbrook's hidden fields. Named for years-past Boy Scout camp-outs, the Scout Meadow isn't visible from any road, and is a good area to enter quietly to perhaps see wildlife. Park at the Snoqualmie Middle School parking lot, and follow along the tree line northeasterly, towards the back of the school. Watch for the break in the trees on your right (east) and follow the path across the causeway into the Scout Meadow. Wear boots for possible wet areas. Did you see an elk?
